British Steel- Structural Sections Capacity Update

Dear Customer,

I am writing to inform you that we shall issue a revised rolling programme next week, with our next available free capacity for the acceptance of new orders being the start of July. Given the continued high demand, please note that for the coming weeks, order acceptance for new production shall be strictly by customer allocation only, with details of this being communicated to customers during next week.

Please note that ex-stock sales are unaffected and will continue as normal. Equally our mills are producing 24/7 and we continue to despatch as normal.

If you have any questions concerning this announcement, please do not hesitate to contact me or the usual member of your account management team.

Yours sincerely,

Ben Cunliffe
Commercial Director, Construction
